

MASERATI SHALLOT

Tropical red shallot hybrid for short day areas. Maserati produces globe shaped bulbs. Because of his good skin quality, Maserati can be used for short term storage.

Varieties perform differently under different climatic conditions, and are usually only suitable for specific markets. For more elaborate information about this variety in a specific market, visit the assortments on our country websites, via www.bejo.com/countries. Our local crop specialists are happy to give additional tailor-made advise.